

Supporting Doctors in Challenging Times

3 external CPD points

Introduction

The COVID-19 pandemic has disrupted many doctors' professional work and personal development. Many have faced significant changes to their scope of work and others may have experienced prolonged absences from clinical work because of the pandemic.

Appraisers need to adopt a supportive approach in their roles and provide doctors with an opportunity to reflect and discuss how they have been affected personally and professionally by the pandemic. They also need to provide guidance to doctors about their future development and be objective in their assessment of the doctor's appraisal outcomes. This short interactive webinar will provide the opportunity for experienced appraisers to discuss these issues and practise specific techniques to support their clinical colleagues who have experienced challenging times.

Course Structure

2.5 Hour Webinar, covering:

- Leading supportive appraisals
- Providing guidance to doctors who have had to take breaks from clinical work
- Agreeing appropriate appraisal output statements

Webinar Objectives

- To enable appraisers to support doctors who may have experienced difficult times during the COVID 19 pandemic
- To provide guidance to doctors who have had prolonged absence from clinical work
- To agree only the appropriate output statements at the end of the appraisal
